DETAILED ACTIONSpecification

1. The specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

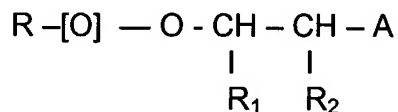

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cherpeck (US 5,669,939).

Cherpeck teaches polyalkylphenoxy aminoalkanes (PAPAA) and fuel compositions containing the same. The PAPAA have the general formula wherein A is amino, R is a polyalkyl group having an average molecular weight in the range of about 600 to 5000; R₁ and R₂ are independently hydrogen or lower alkyl having 1 to 6 carbon atom. Cherpeck teaches that the PAPAA are used in fuel compositions and are prepared as fuel concentrates. Cherpeck teaches that the compounds reduced or prevent engine deposits (see abstract; and claims 21 and 43).

Example 6 and 10 illustrate compounds wherein R_1 and R_2 are both H and R_1 is H. The limitations regarding the claimed molecular weight for R, R being polyisobutene containing at least 20% of a methylvinylidene isomer, a carrier fluid, and the proportions of the compound are all taught by Cherpeck (see Claims 1-10, 13, 21-30, 33, 43-52 and 63).

Cherpeck differs from the claims in that his compound has one less carbon atom in the $-CHR_1 - CHR_2 - A$ radical. However, no unobviousness is seen in this difference because the compounds taught by Cherpeck are homologs of the claimed compound. The Courts have concluded because the characteristics normally possessed by member of a homologous series are principally the same, varying gradually from member to member, chemist knowing the properties of one member of a series would in general know what to expect in adjacent members so that a mere difference in degree is not the marked superiority which will ordinarily remove the unpatentability of adjacent homologs of old substances.
